James P. Reber, best known as the Founder of San Jose Repertory Theatre, has actually founded or been at the launch of a handful of successful nonprofit ventures. His inspirational style of building board enthusiasm and general community support are widely known and appreciated.

Mr. Reber has raised funds for the theatre and other Arts, inner-city kids, education, the Children’s Shelter, AIDS prevention and services, social services, anti-gang programs, libraries, a number of ethnic and cultural programs, health services, recovery programs, local service clubs, and many more.

He is a passionate advocate for doing good in the community and a believer that everyone who desires to help can actually make a tangible, positive difference in the lives of others. This presentation is designed to motivate and inspire board members to do the important work that they do.

An experienced and gifted speaker, Mr. Reber is both entertaining and inspirational and is an ideal guest speaker for a retreat or other gathering of the board. This presentation includes real-life experiences, insightful views about being a board member, and is humorous at times, and at other times poignant and meaningful to anyone who steps a toe into the nonprofit waters.

“Why Being A Board Member Matters” is suitable for audiences of all ages; it is a 20 to 45 minute presentation.
