James P. Reber, best known as the Founder of San Jose Repertory Theatre, has been producing theatre, concerts, festivals, celebrity events, fundraising events, civic ceremonies, media events, and a host of other types of special events, more than 200 events in all, during the past 30 years in the Bay Area, most of it in Silicon Valley.

Mr. Reber has produced everything from Shakespeare in the Park to International Festivals to Celebrity Events with such luminaries as (pre-Governor) Arnold Schwarzenegger, 49er Hall of Fame Quarterback Joe Montana and Wide Receiver Jerry Rice, Senator Robert Dole, Clint Eastwood, among others.

Along the way, there have been trials and tribulations, fascinating tales of passionate drama and hilarious comedy, of treasured moments frozen in the memories of thousands and behind-the-scenes antics that seldom fail to delight.

An experienced and gifted speaker, Mr. Reber entertains and informs and is an ideal guest speaker for an organization interested in hearing from someone in an occupation that few know or think about, but by which a surprising number of people have been touched.

My Life As A Producer is suitable for audiences of all ages; it is a 20 to 40 minute speech and Mr. Reber will take questions.
